The mission of the Interdisciplinary Journal of Information, Knowledge, and Management (IJIKM) is to provide readers around the world with the widest possible coverage of the use of information and technology to effectively create, apply, and communicate knowledge in organizations. In addition to manuscripts centering on knowledge acquisition and sharing, agent-based systems, neural networks, genetic algorithms, learning systems, and natural language processing, we welcome manuscripts on a wide range of topics relating to the organizational use of information and technology.

IJIKM publishes scholarly conceptual, theoretical and empirical papers on the use of information technology to enhance organizational performance.

All papers are submitted and reviewed electronically. We provide our published authors with both a quality print publication and the widespread readership that comes from publishing all papers online within a few weeks of acceptance.
